FORESTALIA 2021: BUSINESS IS FAIR

From 30th October to 1st November Piacenza Expo will host the new edition of the agroforestry show, this year at the same time as Apimell – international trade fair of beekeeping, apiary products and equipment.

The meeting for people working in the woods is renewed and relaunches its proposal in the modern exhibiting centre of Piacenza Expo. The show has a regional appeal and may boast, in the previous editions, visitors from central and northern Italy. Piacenza is the logistic platform of the back Apennines: an area suited to the agroforestry works and with a strong tradition in activities linked to the use of wood in the supply chain of energy. A show with a national importance that will provide updates and solutions for many people working in the sector.

With its 39% of forest area, Italy is among the European countries with the largest wooded area compared to the total. The data show that Italy has a forest heritage that is unrivalled in Europe. In fact, Italy boasts the same forest area as Germany (which, however, has a 16% larger area), three times as large as Austria and has a 7% higher woodland coefficient than France. It is becoming increasingly urgent, therefore, to recover or strengthen a forest management that offers the forest the development of all the ecosystem functions it performs: safety and hydrogeological protection, productive function, environmental quality, increase in biodiversity, CO₂ absorption.

Forestalia wants to be a meeting point for forest operators interested in taking advantage of these opportunities.

THE EXHIBITION: FORESTALIA RESTORES ENERGY TO WORK

The exhibition centre of Piacenza will host technological proposals suitable for green maintenance workers to eliminate waste prunings and branches of all kinds, obtaining high quality wood chips for biomass. For woodcutters Forestalia will host very versatile frontal forest loaders, born from the need to have a machine, ideal for dragging logs in the forest, loading trailers, stacking and working in the sawmill.

The best Italian brands will occupy the first area of the exhibition hall 2 and the external area, where visitors will be able to attend the demonstrations of forestry equipment.

Forestalia 2021 will also present forestry shredders of small and medium size, ideal for the care of underground, the removal of branches and shrubs, as well as the cleaning through forest routes. And then again equipment, tools and spare parts: from blades for chipping machines to winches and rollover buckets, from cables to safety boots. Modular solutions such as miling cutters and mobile sawmills, clamps, disk systems with integrated splitter, forestry pruners and trailers.

Wood-energy supply chain will finally close with economic and eco-friendly heating solutions. There will be avant-garde thermo-technical products that use wood-pellet and biomasses from agriculture, woodworking and forestry industry, for energy conversion.

LIVE DEMOS: DEMONSTRATIONS OF FORESTRY PROCESSING

In the external area of the exhibition hall I, visitors will have the chance to assist demonstrations of the operation of an important selection of forestry machinery, under the guidance of CNR specialists.

An opportunity to know the machine and equipment manufacturers and discover the technological potential related to the professional care of woods. CNR is Forestalia technical partner.

Forestalia is organized by Piacenza Expo.
